Aavah Johnson

My name is Aavah Johnson and I'm a competitive dancer at Studio Powers in Warner Robins, Georgia. I have been dancing competitively for 3 years and I'm loving every second of it.

My dreams as a young dancer are to one day become a choreographer and a professional model. I love to dance and I love being in front of the camera. My favorite genres are Jazz, Ballroom, Tap, Jazz Funk, and Hip Hop. My role models in dance are my coach, Jasmine Powers, Chloe Arnold, and Tawanna Hall.

This season I have my first trio and my goal is to place first in my division. My other goals this season are to learn new skills that I don't already know and to become better than I was the day before.

I am somewhat hard on myself, which is a challenge for me. I won't stop until I finally accomplish something that I have been working for. After failing at something more than once, I become upset. But on the positive side, it makes me want to accomplish it more.

I have received many scholarships in different dance genres at dance conventions. My favorite things about dance are learning new skills, traveling, meeting new people, and becoming better and better. I love dance and I am excited to see what this season holds for me and my team.

Ada

My name is Ada, and I am a level 6 gymnast. My gymnastics journey started out in 2018 and it certainly hasn't been an easy journey. I started at zero, I had no skills, flexibility and was extremely clumsy. After basic classes for a year with some breaks in between, I decided to take gymnastics to the next level. I signed up for tryouts and made the Xcel silver team! I was super happy and I felt so accomplished, but I didn't realize all the challenges were still in front of me. I didn't have most of the skills my teammates had and after just a month of training with my new team my coach wanted me to quit the team and go back to recreational classes. I was devastated so a couple hours to soak it in.... but I realized this wasn't over,

I told my coach I was going to keep trying. That summer of 2019 I worked so incredibly hard on gaining strength, flexibility and skills. Every bit of hard worked payed off. My coach started to believe in me and decided to keep me on the team. In January 2020 I attended my first ever competition, and despite some mistakes, I loved it! I competed again next month, not knowing it was going to be my last competition for a long time.... I finished in 1st place on bars, floor and even in the all around. I realized in that moment that I proved my coach wrong, I was much more capable then she thought I was at first.

Unfortunately, this is when my gymnastics career took a sharp turn. March 2020, my competition season came to an end due to covid. I was devastated but I went to every Zoom practice to condition and get stronger. There were times during the 3 months my gym was closed that I wanted to give up. However with the support from my family I kept going. Once again, my hard work payed off. Because of not missing any Zoom practices I was told I was going to move to the next level (Xcel gold). I couldn't believe it! After 3 long months at home, I made it back to the gym. This time with new coaches and new teammates. I had lost almost all of my skills because I wasn't able to do anything but condition and basics at home. I worked so hard to get the skills back and eventually did, along with gaining other skills to prepare for my Xcel gold season. But only then the real challenge started... In early January 2021, just before competitions were about to start, I flipped off a mat and landed on a straight knee. I didn't realize my season was over at that moment. I returned to gymnastics full on after six months off. I worked my hardest, went to extra practices to get skills back and gain more confidence.

I started to struggle with other injuries after a few months. My ankle was really bothering me and it was tough to work through. The problems kept coming but I pushed through the pain because I wanted to compete next season. I'm eventually made it to next season and competed fully at every meet. I was so proud of not giving up and at the end of the season I won the Washington state bars champion title!

Every bit of work payed off and I am so proud of pushing through the pain, struggles, setbacks because that's what made me tougher and a lot stronger!

Cerys

My name is Cerys I am 7 years old and I love all things dance and gymnastics. My dream would be to be the best I can be in cheerleading, gymnastics, dancing and modelling. I love acting and I have featured on tv before and I can't wait to do more tv work. I also love playing with my friends and my brother who is 9. We are best friends.

Cerys

My name is Daisia Ann, I am seventeen years old and I have been dancing for fifteen years. I started at my local studio at two years old and ever since then I have had a love for being on stage. At six years old I began performing with Moscow Russian Ballet in their production of NUTCRACKER! I gained experience with a professional company and knew I belonged on stage. I took every opportunity I could to perform and began competing. During my nine years doing competitions I won first in overall high score multiple times for teams and duets. I continued dancing at my local studio until 2015 when I performed at Walt Disney World's Disney Springs (then called Downtown Disney). I trained in their studios in workshops with some of the best teachers at the time. The very next year I was chosen to perform at the 2016 Orange Bowl in Florida with the musical group, DNCE featuring Joe Jonas. I worked for months at home on the choreography and finally in late December me and a hundred other dancers walked onto the field to perform in front of millions. I went to high school where it became harder to perform due to being diagnosed with Autoimmune Thyroid Disease. Which is where my immune system attacks my thyroid so I am unable to produce metabolism. Which greatly affects my energy. However I powered through despite the frequent fatigue feeling and found a routine that works for me. I joined a performance company downtown and began performing for Moscow Russian Ballet once again and will be participating in their performance of NUTCRACKER! this December. I dream of one day taking my skills to a sports team dance team. Such as the Milwaukee Bucks Dancers, or the Dallas Cowboy Cheerleaders. I find great self esteem boosts from my time on stage and hyping up a crowd. I know that even if that dream does not become a reality I will always keep dancing despite the challenges.

Jared Baraja

Hi my name is Jared Baraja from San Pedro, CA. I am a freshman at San Pedro High School and participate in several activities such as the Swim Team, Boys Scouts and Modeling. I enjoy working out, weightlifting, skateboarding, camping, rock climbing, cooking along side my grandma (Gloria), camping with my two older brothers (James and Jake) and surfing with my dad (Jaime).

My dream is to travel as much as possible. I want to experience new cultures, see historic sites, beautiful beaches, landscapes and of course, try new foods. One of my travel goals is to visit Greece.

My career goal is to become an & practice Family Law. Modeling on the side is also a goal. It's fun! My hope is to have a large family someday.

I enjoy the challenges life gives. One of these challenges is rock climbing up a 150 foot rock, Spider-Man style and repelling down the face of the cliff. Conquering that fear of height was a huge achievement and part of my success story for earning the Red Perlon in scouting which is grade one in Boy Scouts.
