Your most cherished memory: When my son was born. What is your biggest pet peeve: Liars. Do you drink: Not usually.

Ever been drunk: Yes, and I felt gross and stupid and hated it. Do you smoke: Not anymore. 2 years no cigs!

Do you sing: Not well but that doesn't stop me from doing it as much as possible. Do you believe in yourself: Yes. I am pretty amazing. :-)

Do you believe in others: Some of them. Do you like thunderstorms: If I'm inside.

What do you want to be when you grow up: Healthy and safe. How many tattoos do you have: I don't know. What I do know is that I NEED more!! How many piercings do you have: 2. I wear fake facial ones sometimes. I had more but they all closed.

Natives have been here for thousands of years before European settlers came to this land. With the arrival of Europeans, this history was lost and forgotten.

Native people have lived in North America for millennia before Europeans arrived on their shores. The first inhabitants were nomadic groups who migrated across what is now Canada, Alaska and Greenland as well as parts of the United States from around 10,000 BC until about 1000 AD when they became farmers following contact with early Spanish explorers. Some tribes were hunter-gatherers who hunted game such as bison or reindeer while others relied on agriculture such as corn or beans; some still do today!

A woman with long dark hair, wearing a blue velvet top and denim shorts, stands on a green lawn. Behind her is a massive sculpture constructed from thousands of small, white, rectangular blocks. The sculpture depicts a large, stylized hand or animal head, with its 'fingers' or 'snout' reaching upwards. The scene is outdoors on a cloudy day.
