My goal is for one day someone to notice my hard work, dedication, and talents. I won many awards for my solo dances, scholarships, judges awards, and always in the top 5 for my age division. Some challenges I face is I'm a small town girl who has never been offered the big opportunity I want or need.

This year I received my first 1st place over all at a dance competition. This year I plan to work harder and be a better dancer than I was last year and to improve on my improv. My advice to younger dancers... don't give up, keep going!

my dream is to become a professional dancer, that dances on stage and/or on a TV show. I want to master every type of dance style there is. The most challenging part of dance is that you have to have the right precision and timing, and make it look both completely flawless and effortless. Some of my current achievements so far is dancing at public events throughout my state, I love performing for audiences. Also, any time my dances place overall at competitions (there are too many to name) or winning Dancer of the Year at Rainbow Dance Competition in 2021. I'm also very proud of how strong and flexible I've become, and am excited to get even stronger and more flexible in the future.

Throughout my life I've had a lot of downfalls involving my spine. I had multiple spinal fusions since I suffered from scoliosis. My doctors and I have pushed it to the side and hopping for the best but I continued to get worse. I was told I would never be able to dance or wrestle again. But that didn't kill my motivation. However after my fusion I still participated in so many softball, wrestling, and dance. It was a miracle being able to go back to the things I love most. Not being able to do something I love nearly crushed my soul entirely. My goal in life was to be able to partake in my athletic career without my medical condition interfering and never giving up on myself. With everyone supporting me, i've made that dream come true, it takes full dedication to be where I am today and I couldn't be more proud of myself for all of my accomplishments.

My goal in life is to be the best version of myself. One of my biggest challenges is having severe anxiety. When I'm in class and have to do a solo my emotions take over me sometimes. But once I hit the stage I feel powerful, strong, confident, and fearless. I love performing and telling a story on stage it makes me feel complete. I would love to travel and choreograph all over the world. I've won many awards over my 14 years of dancing. I've been invited to perform in New York, I've been picked at Ballet Auditions to take classes at the renowned Debbie Allen in Los Angeles, I've also received top awards for many of my solo performances. I want to keep pushing for greatness and hope I can inspire other young dancers they can be whomever they want to become in life.
