My name is Adriana Nicole, a 16-year old aspiring model, actress and musician. I live in the metro Atlanta area with my Mom and three siblings. My dream since I was 7-years old was to be a model and actress. My very first fashion show that I walked the runway was at that age. I even started taking piano lessons at that age, but dropped it. Recently I've resumed my lessons with a passion to get musically good enough to perform at my church choir. Currently I am in my last year of high school, taking classes online. After graduation my plans are to attend college here in the Atlanta, GA area. I have a love for babies and hope to pursue prenatal nursing even if my modeling career takes off. The most challenging part of being a teenager is the isolation I sometimes experience since I am in online school, not around my peers. It gets lonely at times. I want to keep my life busy in attaining my goals, but also desire to pursue friendships. Academically, I am almost finished completing my high school courses a year early with hopes of a 4.0 GPA. The next few months will definitely demonstrate how much all my hard work has paid off. I hope to see work credentials I can be proud of. The support from my loving family has given me so much courage to pursue my dreams.

Bella

My name is Bella. I have been cheering for 7 years at PowerCheer!All Stars. I am currently on a Junior Level 3 team as a base.

My goals are to make it to D2 Summit for the 3rd year in a row with my team. Continue cheering into high school and college! After college I either want to be a doctor or own a cheer gym.

My greatest accomplishment in cheer was cheering at Summit for the first time with my team. It was such an amazing experience and I just couldn't believe I was there.

I think my greatest challenge was learning a new position. I flew for 4 years and this year I am learning how to be a base. I think it is important as a cheerleader to have a solid understanding of as many positions on a team as possible. Some days are really tough but I have some of the greatest coaches and they are teaching me how to be the best base I can.

My name is Maddie Morales AKA Jiu Jitsu Princess Maddie. I am a 12 year old female Brazilian Jiu Jitsu competitor. My recent accomplishments include: medaling at ADCC in Vegas, winning multiple belts at competitions such as NAGA and New Breed. Additionally, I have placed at a number of competitions all across Texas against males and females in a number of different weight/age divisions.

My goal is to help promote jiu jitsu because of all the benefits it provides. BJJ helps with anxiety, self-esteem, confidence, self-protection, and keeps you healthy. I also want to show that BJJ is not just for boys but also for girly girls too. I enjoy training and competing with my entire family at my Father's school in Texas, Fighting Chance Academy. BJJ empowers girls to defend themselves and live a positive/healthy life style.

My dream is to become a pediatric orthopedic surgeon and be an ADCC World Champion as an adult. I hope to continue BJJ throughout my life and influence other young girls to start training and competing so they can receive the many benefits it provides.

Paramita Bhattacharyya

Paramita Bhattacharyya is an Indian Kathak dance exponent from Los Angeles, USA. With a dream to build her organization for dance education, she visualizes a goal for herself to teach dance and educate people about the importance of dance in our life. The dance style that she practices is known as 'Kathak,' meaning storytelling and the artist is known as 'Kathakar', the storyteller. In her dance presentations, she always tries to portray a story related to social issues and other aspects of the everyday life so that her audience finds a relation with themselves and likes to get involved with the art form presentation. That way she loves to establish a relationship with the audience, the dance enthusiasts, and the dance students who wants to learn and explore the Kathak dance form. At the same time, she likes to explain how Indian Kathak dance relates to yoga and meditation, the age-old ancient culture and exercise from India. Different 'yoga asanas' explain the postures and body movements practiced in the dance form while 'pranayam' explains the breathing technique applied while dancing or acting a specific 'abhinaya' in the art of storytelling in Kathak.

Paramita achieved few steps towards her goal of educating people about Indian Kathak dance. Especially she noticed that after each of her performance many people would come up and meet her backstage and would ask for joining her Kathak dance class and if the music is available for them online to at least watch it again. Paramita believes that even at least a few steps are taken at a time, and we continue working towards our goal, it will be achievable and for her it's to spread the love for 'Kathak'.

As her work got recognized by people and published in media, she finds happiness in that. She achieved awards for her dance work and commitment towards the art form including the certificate of commitment from the 'World Book of Records', London and 'Nriya Bhushan' from India.

Paramita mentions many challenges she had to face initially to find a platform to showcase the Indian dance form alongside other classical dance form from the Western world. In a slow but steady manner of approaching towards her dream to find a place for Kathak dance, she started performing in many community events and then found bigger stage where she was able to showcase Kathak in front of bigger audience both Indian and non-Indian. She finds its very special when she finds an opportunity to perform for non-Indian audience because its gives her the option to exchange cultural values and establish a connection with different other people. "Also, it gives me the opportunity to make new piece of art by making fusion in Kathak with ballet, tap, and other western dance form to reach more audience", mentions Paramita.
